Ottawa, Aug. 6.—Recommendations of the International Fisheries Commission appointed under the North Pacific Halibut Treaty are contained in a report to the Federal Department of Marine and Fisheries. Additional measures of conservation of halibut suggested are summarized therein as follows:

To establish areas, within each of which a definite quantity for preservation of the fishery there, the total catch of halibut may be reduced by a predetermined percentage annually, commencing not less than one year after the putting into force of this recommendation, until the fishery therein shall reach a state of stability if need be.

To determine upon the amount of this percentage reduction and to revise the same from time to time as may be found necessary, the intent being to

Seattle Visitors Get Impression of City From Big Passenger Plane; Well-known Author Also Covers a Lot of Mileage in Five Hours

Impressions of Victoria for use in a travelogue which will soon appear in The Seattle Star and also photographs of the city were obtained Saturday from the giant passenger aeroplane on the Seattle-Vancouver run.

The party, which arrived in the city Saturday afternoon, consisted of twelve, including writers, photographers and officials in charge of information bureaus in various parts of Washington. The aerial journey came as a pleasant surprise. Ten of the twelve had never been in a plane before, and George I. Warren drove them to the Landseer Road and the B.C. Airways generously placed the plane at their disposal. From the plane the Publicity Commissioner was able to point out Victoria to the visitors in a most advantageous manner, and as few publicity commissioners have an opportunity of doing. All were charmed with the beauty of the trip and the comfort of riding in the "big bus."

They were afterwards taken over the Malahat as far as Cameron Lake, where they were shown the beauty of Vancouver Island scenery and big timber. Returning they stopped at Mill Bay and left last night on the Edmonds-Victoria ferry.

AUTHOR FLIES

Col. Jefferson Davis, the well-known author, and an authority on the law of aeronautics of the United States, was also a recent passenger in the big plane. He was chairman of the U.S. Bar Association for one year, but is probably better known by his books and contributions to the Seattle Post. Last week the colonel left Seattle at 8:45 and was in Victoria by 11:45. After a short stay in Victoria he flew to Vancouver, arriving there by 11:45. He left Vancouver at noon and was back in Victoria by 12:45. After lunch with Ernest Eve, president of the B.C. Airways, he left for Seattle at 1:45 and was back in Seattle by 2:45. Visiting the two Canadian cities, one of them twice, and returning to Seattle in the space of five days.

Vancouver, Aug. 6.—Smashing the combination dial from the door of the safe, robbers escaped with $675 in cash and $292 in cheques from the Sincere Grocery on Robson Street here at the weekend.

Henry O. Soon, proprietor, notified the police that when he opened the shop at 8 a.m. to-day he found the safe had been opened by forcing a rear door.

The safe crackers had climbed a small partition in front of the safe. Evidently they used a heavy sledge-hammer to smash the combination knob from the door of the strong box. They escaped through a side door on Burrard Street.

Mrs. Christine Dollar
Dies in Vancouver

Vancouver, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Christine A. (widow of William Dollar, brother of Robert Dollar, well-known shipping man of San Francisco, died here to-day. She has resided in Vancouver for eleven years.

Mrs. Dollar is survived by two sons, William A. Dollar, 20, B.C. Airways, and Robert E. of Portage, N.D., and by two daughters, Miss Margaret and Miss Clara Dollar, at home. She was predeceased by her husband on December 18, 1926.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 6.—The large passenger steamer Huronic of the Northern Navigation division of the Canada Steamship Lines ran aground on Lucille Island shortly after 4 o'clock this morning during a heavy fog. The Huronic was returning from a week-end trip to Duluth when the accident occurred, and carried a fairly large passenger list, but the vessel is in no danger, according to a statement by Brock Button, district manager of the company.

PREMIER KING VISITS BRANDON

Federal Prime Minister Speaks There During Journey to Prince Albert, Sask.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 6.—Premier King is a visitor in Brandon to-day on his way to Prince Albert, Sask. This afternoon he will address a meeting here.

The Prime Minister was greeted by many citizens following his arrival here.

The meeting here was arranged by Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, who represents Brandon in the House of Commons.

TO SPEAK AT DAVIDSON Mr. King will address a meeting at Davidson, Sask., in the constituency of Long Lake, which is represented in the House of Commons by J. Fred Johnston, Deputy Speaker.

Mr. King will reach Prince Albert Wednesday morning, and remain there for a couple of days before starting back for Ottawa.

Mr. King is member of the Commons for Prince Albert.

AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Aug. 6.—Premier King passed through Winnipeg last night en route to Prince Albert, Sask., where he will speak at the new National Bank.

The Prime Minister, here for little more than an hour, was greeted by a number of prominent people.

Several interesting incidents marked the Prime Minister's trip from Ottawa to Winnipeg. At Cobey Park, a crowd gathered at the station and Mr. King alighted from his car and talked and shook hands with some of those present. Similarly at Redditt there was a gathering of people, among whom was Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor. Again Mr. King conversed with them until his train pulled out.

OCEAN FLIERS

SAVED BY SHIP

therefore to continue their flight to New York or Halifax and return to Europe.

FELL NEAR SHIP

When they were seventy miles away from Cape Finisterre, the westernmost point of Spain, they noticed additional damage.

This caused the plane to plane to the sea and the heavy machine plunged into the sea near the steamship Samos. The wings broke and the plane was otherwise damaged.

"We threw ourselves into the sea," said Capt. Evans. "We swam toward the Samos, whose crew rescued us and then took the plane in tow. We were altogether thirty-eight hours in the air."

The airmen plan to leave for Paris on Wednesday.

The plane took while well out to sea, the aviators saw the Samos sixty miles off shore. The airmen turned their plane toward the ship and, circling over it, dropped a message in a small weighted tube on its deck.

The message asked the ship to stand by to pick up the two men.

DO NOT USE HAFT

The plane struck the water with such force that the wings were smashed. The fliers did not wait to inflate their collapsible rubber boat—the only device they carried for their safety. Both jumped overboard.

They were swimming near the wreckage when the Samos picked them up. The wrecked plane, which was valued at 1,000,000 francs, was towed to Leixoes by the ship. It was found to be so seriously damaged it was thought it would be almost useless.

The Samos docked at Leixoes Sunday morning.

The aviators had been in the air since 4:46 a.m. Greenwich mean time Friday, and had made a great circle out over the Atlantic toward the Azores, during which they had been sighted by the steamship. It was a radio report from the vessel which gave the world intimation the Poles had abandoned their attempt to span the Atlantic and were headed back to Europe.

The United States pair from Philadelphia disposed of one of their strongest rivals by defeating Capt. O'Brien and Hibberd and advanced one step to the finals for the championship in their class. The half-American led by a length at the half-way point, and held it in the last 1,000 metres.

SECOND FAILURE

For the second time in a week trouble with the fuel supply had forced a plane into the water on an attempt to make the westward crossing of the Atlantic, which has only once been accomplished in a plane, the Bremen.

For the second time too, in so brief a space, aviators were picked up by steamships from the waters in which so many of their daring predecessors had met death.

On Wednesday Captain Frank T. Courtney, with three companions, had set out in a flying boat from the Azores to fly to Newfoundland. Half-way across, a broken gas line had exploded fire against the hot motor so the plane caught fire and forced a rapid descent. The flying boat made a safe landing and floated ten hours until a steamship reached the spot. The plane was abandoned.

MADE FAST TIME

United States double sculls crew of Charles McIlvane and Paul Costello, defeated the Austrian crew of Lower and Plessel in the second elimination round of the Olympic rowing events to-day. The United States time, which was a new course record, was 49.2 seconds.

The Argentine eight was eliminated from the regatta by the Polish eight, which won by two lengths in 6 minutes 43.3 seconds.

SENATION FINISH

A race between the German and British fours, without coxswain, finished sensationally when the German stroke collapsed fifty yards from the finish line by half a length all the way. Britain won. The Germans are now out of competition, having lost to the United States crew on Friday.

HIGH JUMP AND RELAY WON BY MAPLE LEAVES IN RECORD FASHION

Yesterday was an outstanding triumph for Canadian girlhood, for the two events captured by the Dominion girls were the only finals of the day for women.

The men's 1,600 metres relay team, W. A. Wilson of Montreal, Phil Edwards of Hamilton, S. B. Glover of Edmonton and James Ball of Winnipeg, ran third, just missing that place from the Swedish miners.

The third and last men's event, the grueling marathon, was won by a French Moroccan, El Quafi, with the leading Canadian Cliff Bricker of Galt, in tenth place.

The day, the last day of the track and field games as far as Canada was concerned, went to the girls.

SENDS FLAG TO TOP

Elsie Catherwood was jubilant after her feat. She was lifted to the shoulders of Canadians, athletes and spectators alike, and smilingly received the plaudits of the great crowd. She waved her arms to the cheering spectators and smiled again as the Canadian flag soared to the top of the main Olympic pole in token of her victory. It was the second ascension of the day, the flag having been sent to the top by the relay team earlier.

Miss Catherwood's victory was received with more enthusiasm than any other Canadian win, except that of Percy Williams in the 100 metres last Monday, for she had placed no less than seventeen in the qualifying events in the morning.

Fraulein Gisolf of Holland and Miss

Mildred Wiley of the United States tied for the second place, and in the jump off the Dutch girl gained the second place of honor.

RACED MADLY

The girls' relay team sped madly to beat the world record they had set up in their trials on Saturday. Miss Beesonfield, a notorious fast breaker, made a false start and was warned that a second fault would bring disqualification.

The second time she was cautious in getting away and started her competitor, Ethel Smith, took the baton at the end of the quarter and ran a fast 100 metres to reach fourth place before handing over the baton to Jane Bell. Miss Bell also ran an excellent race and made no mistake in handing the baton to Myrtle Cook at the three-quarter mark.

As on Saturday, Miss Cook displayed a wonderful burst of speed to cover over the United States girl by two yards.

MYRTLE COOK ELATED

The Canadian girls finished in excellent condition and were so exuberant that the cameramen, anxious to get their pictures, could hardly keep them still. Myrtle Cook, in particular, jumped up and down in her joyousness. Miss Cook had been unlucky in her other race, the 100 metres, being disqualified for a false break, so the victory was all the sweeter to her.

Miss Rosenfeld incidentally deserves special mention. She ran a close second in the women's 100 metres earlier in the week and was fifth in the 800-metre race, running again yesterday to give the girls a fast start in the relay.

The Canadian men ran a good race in the 1,600-metre relay, but were up against strong teams. The United States and German runners sparred and Germany had the lead at the end of the first 900 metres. The United States and Sweden were a close fourth.

Wilson got away promptly and was in third place half-way along his 400-metre assignment. He was fourth behind the leaders when he handed the baton to Phil Edwards. The dusky runner saved third place for the Canadians and made a great finish to take the all.

The Canadian team had a great finish and took the lead in the closing stages.

Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Here From Britain, Gives Interview at Montreal

Montreal, Aug. 6.—The immediate re-establishment of relations between Great Britain and Russia would be one of the first acts of the Labor Party were it returned to power in Britain, declared Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, former Labor Prime Minister, in an interview here last night, following his arrival from Quebec city, start of his tour of Canada.

He was accompanied by his three daughters, Isabel, Sheila and Joan.

In speaking of Soviet Russia, Mr. MacDonald also had something to say of the present Government of Great Britain, headed by Premier Bonar Law.

Mr. MacDonald said he would not work "in the shadow" of the shoulders of his party the responsibility held by the present Government of having caused unemployment and great loss to the country by refusing to carry on trade with Russia. The Socialists, he said, had been one of the greatest blunders of the Government, he said, to repair the damage suffered by the country and in the interests of peace of Europe, his party would do all within its power to return to the relations existing in 1924.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

Although he refused to add to his previous statement regarding roads, that he would cover that ground already and could supply little further information regarding his stand. Mr. MacDonald gave other examples of matters that would receive the attention of the Labor Party were it to return to power. He mentioned the need for improving the road systems of the British Isles and the development of water power. More than a million acres of water-logged land required to be drained and cultivated. Land settlement schemes to take the people "back to the land" would be taken seriously in mind.

PROSPERITY IN CANADA

Mr. MacDonald said he was delighted with the plain evidence of prosperity in Canada. The condition, he said, was a tribute to the character and intelligence of the Canadian working classes.

To the Canadian working man, he gave a special message, saying that he should support both the industrial and political labor movements at home, he held out the hand of fraternity to the Canadian working classes. They would, he hoped, observe and be inspired by the development of the Labor Party in Great Britain. In addition, he pointed out, it would be impossible to copy its policies as the laboring classes of each nation must plan adaptations to their own particular situation.

While the premises and house were searched, the police said that the man and his wife, a maid and a neighbor, a slight noise was heard in a downstairs closet. In a corner of the closet Kelly was found crouched. He made a futile attempt to escape through a window, but was immediately overpowered by two detectives.

CARRIED THREE CHILDREN FROM PATH OF DEATH

Father and Mother Save Their Family When Train Hits Auto on Crossing

New Westminster, Aug. 6.—Alexander Epalin, his wife and three children of Vancouver, leaped to safety early yesterday morning when their automobile stalled on the C.N.R. tracks here and was struck by a freight engine.

The Polish family was returning to Vancouver when the car stalled on the tracks at the junction of Columbia and Front Streets about 1:30 a.m. With the dying roar of the auto engine came the distant roar of a train and the blinding glare of its headlight as it rounded a bend.

Mrs. Epalin, a child in her arms, jumped to the tracks and made for the road, while Mr. Epalin took a second child. He carried it to safety and removed the third child, leaping away as the train crashed into the auto.

Pieces of the wrecked machine struck Mr. Epalin in the face, knocking out three front teeth. Otherwise the family escaped injury. The car immediately burst into flames.

Suspect Held After Woman's Body Is Found

Los Angeles, Aug. 6.—Victim, apparently of a degenerate slayer, Mrs. Marie L. Melville, forty-four, wealthy and socially prominent, was found murdered in her home here late yesterday afternoon. A suspect, who gave his name as Pat Kelly, thirty-six, found hiding in a closet in the house, was captured by the police.

The body was found by the widow, Frank Melville, clubman and vice-president of a wholesale canvas goods company, when he returned from an all-day fishing trip.

While the premises and house were searched, the police said that the man and his wife, a maid and a neighbor, a slight noise was heard in a downstairs closet. In a corner of the closet Kelly was found crouched. He made a futile attempt to escape through a window, but was immediately overpowered by two detectives.

THREE DEAD IN CROSSING CRASH

Three More of Motoring Party Seriously Hurt When Engine and Car Collide

Montreal, Aug. 6.—Three persons were killed and three injured, two of them seriously, when an eastbound Canadian National Railway passenger train and a light open touring car came together at a railway crossing at St. Basile, twenty miles from St. Hyacinthe, yesterday.

Those killed were William Burrows, forty-three, his wife, forty, and a brother, Charles, thirty-five.

The injured are Willie Burrows, eighteen; Albert Burrows, fourteen, and Gertrude Burrows, nine.

Willie and Gertrude are in a critical condition. Those killed and injured are residents of Montreal.

There were no eyewitnesses of the accident but the train was traveling at a high speed.

The vehicles were picked up 200 feet from the crossing. The automobile was demolished. The accident occurred within 1,000 feet of the St. Basile Station.

The train is known as Train No. 1 in the Maritime Express. It proceeds for the Maritime provinces after arrangements had been made to postpone the inquiry until to-day.

A statement issued by the railway said the public crossing at which the accident occurred gave a clear view in both directions and the warning bell of the engine was ringing.

ALBANIA SEEKS MONARCHY NOW

Reports Indicate President Ahmed Zogu May Be Crowned Ruler

Tirana, Albania, Aug. 6.—An authoritative source yesterday said Albania was about to change from a republic to a monarchy. The Prime Minister, Ahmed Zogu, said this decision was said to have been arrived at as the result of many meetings by the ministers.

It also was said Parliament had dissolved itself to make place for a constituent assembly on August 25 which will revise article 141 of the national constitution, which prohibits a change in the form of government.

Formation of a monarchy may follow immediately after it is legalized.

President Zogu has been at the head of the Albanian Government almost continuously since the World War. He was at first premier, and as such was driven from office in 1924. He regained control, however, and became Aje Banja, president, of which he became President. He was elected by Parliament in 1925 for a seven-year term.

The President was entrusted with very wide powers, including the selection of all his Ministers and a proportion of the upper chamber of Parliament.

Constipation can be avoided

Make this two weeks' test and note the difference

Constipation must not be neglected. Start a two weeks' test now. Order a package of Post's Bran Flakes from your grocer.

Start by eating a dish of Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast. Eat it as a cereal, with milk or cream. You will like it as well as any cereal you ever tasted.

Do this every day for two weeks. We predict you will find a real difference in the way you feel, and that you have been "regular" all the time.

Don't stop at the end of two weeks. Eat Post's Bran Flakes every morning for health and regularity.

Post's Bran Flakes is sold by all grocers in a wax-wrapped package. Ready to eat.

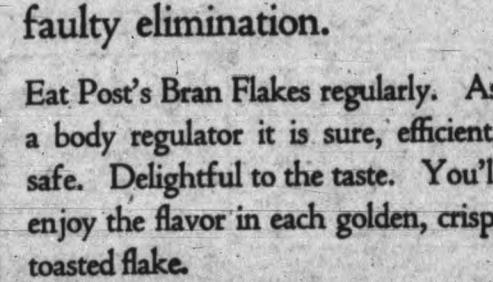

It is dangerous to experiment with patent medicines and drug laxatives. They bring only temporary relief and may make matters much worse. Ordinary cases of constipation, brought about by too little roughage in the diet should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, don't experiment. Consult a competent physician.

AS OTHERS SEE US

WHILE SOME OF OUR PUBLIC MEN, in the hope of making a little political capital, continue to paint the United States—to the detriment of Canada—in colors that would be suitable to depict the Promised Land, it appears that the United States Department of Commerce, without consultation with our own blue-ruin artists, has been giving this country a little bit of free advertising in respect of our financial condition and capacity.

We are told by this branch of the public services of the republic that for several years now we have been exporting more capital than we have been importing. In other words, in addition to wiping out our old debts to foreign investors more rapidly than new foreign capital is being invested in the Dominion, our financiers now are participating heavily in the flotation of securities in the United States and are taking some part in investments in Latin America and Europe.

"The forces behind Canada's change from an importer to an exporter of capital," says the report, "are, of course, Canadian prosperity and Canadian thrift. These forces may well continue. With little imagination one visualizes Canada at no very remote future ranking among the creditor nations, and perhaps with a little courage one would dare prophesy it."

The report then goes on to compare Canada's position at the present time with that of the United States during the last years prior to the Great War. It regards it as very similar and says "it is the position of a so-called debtor nation, which is reducing its old debts to foreign investors, or is making new foreign investments of its own, in an aggregate volume exceeding that of its new borrowings from abroad."

These impartial comments on the part of the United States Department of Commerce must be somewhat disconcerting to Hon. R. B. Bennett and other Conservative leaders in Canada, whose sole business seems to be to inform the Canadian people that this country is in a very bad shape indeed, and that the time is not far distant when it will be thrown to the bow-wows completely. The people know differently, and there is evidence that Mr. Bennett is beginning to realize the fact.

CANADIAN AVIATION

IF THE CHARGE CAN BE SUSTAINED that Canada is not progressing in the air as rapidly or as efficiently as she might do if the general public was a little more interested in this modern means of transportation, Canadian Aviation, a monthly journal which recently made its bow to the public of this country as the official organ of the Aviation League of Canada should be able to create that "air-mindedness" among our people which seems to have taken hold of the people of other lands. The first issue of this periodical contains a good deal of interesting and informative letterpress, a number of fine illustrations, while its appearance in general entitles it to a prominent place among Canadian journals of a similar character. It is not necessary to point out that the objective of Canadian Aviation is the encouragement of a practical interest in the varied use of aircraft. It should be able to wield considerable influence and be assured of liberal public support.

SCOFFING AT PEACE PROPOSALS

SAVE AS A MORAL GESTURE, A CON temporary pronounces, the Kellogg peace pact is valueless as it stands; it is called, in effect, a pious resolution. Happily for the world as a whole, there are precious few newspapers in this frame of mind and very few public men in a mood to throw cold water on what, as King George said in his Speech from the Throne in the British Parliament the other day, constitutes "a new and important guarantee of the world's peace."

It is amazing that at this stage of the world's progress there should be this sceptical attitude towards any organized effort to promote peace between the nations. It is an attitude which obviously does not belong to this day and generation. It is another way of saying that the world learned nothing from the last war, that nothing on earth will prevent another one from being fought, and that it is foolish to expect anything else. The statesmen of fifteen countries think differently. They do not propose to plead guilty to any charge that the world is morally so bankrupt that nations can devise no other means of settling such differences as may arise between them save by resort to arms. On the contrary, they propose to attach their signatures to the Kellogg treaty and give it a chance, "moral gesture" or "pious resolution" though it may be. In that action the peoples of the world will support them and strengthen their determination to confound the scoffers.

The Toronto Globe draws attention to an article in a recent issue of The Saturday Evening Post, by Mr. Garet Garrett, in which he touches on one point which is securing increasing recognition in the press of the United States. He considers that the signatory powers, "by taking the pledge to renounce war, actually, if indirectly, commit themselves to unite in punishing any peace-breaking power." If that opinion becomes general among the American people, we read, the Kellogg pact may possibly accomplish what the League Covenant once hoped to do—marshal the peace-loving peoples of the world against any nation which attempts to run amok.

Another factor which strengthens the idea that such may be the net, if originally unintended, effect of this treaty is the Soviet attitude toward the proposal. Russia interprets it as a pact of alliance against herself. If the people of the rest of the world could be convinced that such was really the case, The Globe continues, and that the nations accepting the Kellogg treaty were, even by implication, binding themselves to united action in case a new Napoleon or Kaiser Wilhelm should arise, or some Communist leader should finally attempt to carry out the Marxian doctrine of world revolution by armed force, Aug. 28 would be hailed as a great day indeed. On the other hand, this united action on the part of fifteen states, sooner or later, should impress Russia and induce her to participate in the object of the treaty and renounce war as an instrument of her policy.

The point some people seem to ignore in their impatience for a formula to abolish all war or chance of war at once is that it is less than ten years since the first real organized peace movement got underway. War in one form or another has been resorted to since the dawn of civilization; but peace as a popular doctrine still is in its swaddling clothes. Yet the League of Nations already has a number of triumphs to its credit. To these, to the pacts of Locarno, and now the Kellogg treaty, humanity pins its hopes for better things.

WHAT IS THE SECRET OF THE ITALIA?

WE ARE TOLD THAT PREMIER MUSSOLINI is annoyed at the unkind things that have been said and are being said about General Nobile and the other members of his North Pole party. He says that the world should reserve judgment until the Italian government has investigated all the circumstances surrounding the tragedy.

It obviously is unjust to arrive at conclusions without reliable information; but Premier Mussolini has only himself and his compatriots to blame if the many rumors and strange accounts which have got abroad have made the general public somewhat sceptical and ready to believe things which may not be in accordance with the facts. For ever since the Italia crashed in the frozen wastes of the Arctic, the Italians have been highly secretive. They do not seem to have made any efforts to prevent widely different versions of every incident from creeping out. This attitude not only has encouraged the spreading of rumors; it has created the impression, rightly or wrongly, that there was something they were trying to suppress.

Premier Mussolini demands that the world reserve judgment until it gets the facts. Since the world is more than ordinarily interested in what really took place, it might suggest with propriety that the Italian government resort to complete frankness in order that there shall be no delay in getting at the facts. There should be nothing involved about the inquiry which has been promised.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

AMALGAMATION OF BANKS

The Cleveland Plain Dealer

No such concentration of banking power as has been effected in Canada is likely here. The number of American banks, now about 25,000, will hardly suffer great diminution. Newly organized banks are likely to offset the reduction in numbers for which mergers will be accountable.

ILLITERATE IMMIGRANTS

The Chicago Post

Many Americans are inclined to be lenient towards foreign immigrants who live in colonies and make small effort to learn English beyond the little that is essential for outside communication, but this view is wrong. An ability to read as well as to speak English intelligently should be required before they are admitted to citizenship.

FREE PRESS

Chicago Tribune

The editor of the Daily Gazette of Lancaster, O., published an editorial criticizing the decision of a local justice of the peace who had placed a nominal fine on an individual found guilty of assaulting a young woman. The justice clapped the editor in jail on the charge of contempt of court. The editor was released by a judge of the court of common pleas, who pointed out that the editorial appeared after the proceeding in the justice court had taken place and did not disturb the court's procedure, threaten the justice, or interfere with the matter.

FARMER LOSES LIFE
Regina, Aug. 6.—When an automobile he was repairing fell on him, John L. Anderson, one of the best known farmers in southern Saskatchewan, was instantly killed on his farm at Little Woody.

"Who's that behind us, Fred?" asked the man at the wheel as a car hooted.

"Only a flapper in a roadster," Fred answered.

The driver hurried his wheel over, swerved the car off the road, crashed through a fence and turned turtle.

"Thank heaven, we escaped," he muttered.

"My wife ran the car into the fence the other day and knocked some paint off," he said.

"Off what, your car or your fence?"

"Neither, off my wife."

THE DUCK

The following examples typify the principle of the duck:

1. Dummy holding-hearts A K 9 8 7 6 5; declarer holding—hearts 4 3. Four cards in the heart suit are cut against you. They may be divided two and two or three and one. Play safe and duck the first time, giving up the trick. You will then be reasonably sure of a small advantage.

2. Dummy holding—diamonds A K Q 9 8 7 4; declarer holding—diamonds 4 3. Five cards in the diamond suit are cut out against you. They may be divided three and three or two and four and one. If you need six diamonds tricks to make game do not duck, taking a chance so that you may make game. If you have only five diamond tricks for game, duck the one and the five tricks will be assured.

3. Dummy holding—clubs A K Q 8 2; declarer holding—clubs 6 5. Six cards in the club suit are out against you. They are probably divided three and three or four and two. If you require one four trick for game, duck the first time. If you require five tricks for game, play for the drop and do not duck.

4. Dummy holding—spades A K 7 6 5; declarer holding—spades 4 3. Six cards in the spade suit are out against you. They are probably divided three and three or four and two. ## GROWING WATER LILY EASY IF YOU KNOW HOW

AQUATIC PLANTS OFFER FASCINATING OPPORTUNITIES IN THE GARDEN

POND MUST BE MADE RIGHT FROM BEGINNING TO ASSURE SUCCESS

Any one who has seen water lilies and other aquatic plants in bloom must have been filled with a desire to grow them; but most gardeners hesitate to undertake what appears to be a difficult task, especially on account of the expense and expense which they imagine is involved. A little study, however, will show that this problem, like most of the difficulties of gardening, can be overcome with unexpected ease.

The site of the garden pond must be chosen to fair advantage of sunshine. It should be built at a fairly low level, so that the water may be laid into the pool along a little waterway, made of cement and rocks and planted with moisture-loving plants.

The site having been decided upon, the next step is to excavate a hole for a pond of the required shape desired. It is best to make the shape as irregular as possible, and the depth should be between three and four feet. The nature of the soil will govern the further details of construction. If the soil is of a clay nature, a clay subsoil a waterproofed and may be made by pouring a waterproofing of well-puddled clay at least six inches thick. This should be trodden and beaten to prevent any chance of subsidence, as this is nearly always the cause of leaks.

MIXING CONCRETE
If one cannot get clay, concrete must be used. This should consist of three parts of sand to one of cement. The sand should be saved by first lining the whole excavation with rocks, old bricks or cement slab, and then working the cement over them, after all the cracks have been filled with good concrete. Three inches of concrete should be applied, well worked over with a trowel and left rough so that the surface of the coating of sand will be sure to adhere. See that the cement is well mixed, or leaks are almost sure to occur. When the concrete is set, go over the whole with a mixture of one part of cement to one part of sand, making the coating an inch thick. When this is set, go over again with whitewash or other brush washer, water, to which has been added about ten per cent of coal oil.

A great improvement may be made if the side of the excavation are carried up within about six or seven inches of the water line and then filled into a bank of shingle about a foot broad, with concrete along the bottom and upright portions and with rocks embedded on the water side. This shingle may then be filled with soil and many charming plants may be grown around the pond.

Plucky Youth Dies In Effort To Save Girl

Club to Hear Address on "Some Canadian Ancestors"

Seattle, Aug. 6.—Edward Guest, twenty-one, one-legged Seattle youth, paid with his life when he made a vain attempt yesterday to save his sixteen-year-old cousin, Edna Coleman, from drowning in a little lake near Seattle. The two sank together.

The youth's mother watched the tragedy from shore, while his brother was unsuccessful in an effort to reach the pair before they disappeared beneath the lake's surface.

The girl was attempting to swim from help brought young Guest to her side.

Another week-end fatality resulted from an attempt of Earl Hamilton Smith, eight, to "steal a ride" on a wagonload of wool from his home on Washon Island. His fingers slipped from the wagon and he fell under the wagon and he fell under the wheels. Unaware of the tragedy, the teamster kept on until overhauled by a motorist who had picked up the crushed body of the child.

Friendly Help—The regular monthly meeting of the Friendly Help Association will be to-morrow morning, August 7, at 10:30 in the upstairs room of the Market Building. Cormorant Street.

W.C.T.U. Picnic—The Central W.C.T.U. has arranged to have a benefit picnic at the Japanese Tea Gardens, Gorge Park on Thursday afternoon, August 2. Members are asked to meet at the gardens at 3 o'clock, and any visitors to the city interested in the W.C.T.U. are invited to attend.

Ladies' Auxiliary F.O.E.—All members of ladies' auxiliary F.O.E. are requested to attend a social gathering of Sisters of Charity at the Empire Hall on Wednesday, August 8, at 8:45 p.m. after the usual weekly meeting of Victoria Aero No. 12. All Eagles and friends are invited to attend.

A.O.F. Garden Party—The ladies of Court Triumphant A.O.F. will have their garden party on Wednesday, August 8, at the home of Mrs. A. F. Curtis, 1250 Pandora Avenue. There will be many pleasing attractions. All Foresters and friends are invited.

VARSITY WOMEN TO MEET SOON IN MAINLAND CITY

Victoria Delegates to Attend Federation Rally August 21

Mr. W. E. H. Godson, Mrs. H. E. Young, Miss Patricia Smith and Miss Ellen Hart will be among the Victoria delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of University Women, which is to meet in Vancouver, commencing August 21. The sessions will be held in the Hotel Vancouver.

Miss M. L. Boller, dean of women at the University of British Columbia, is the present president of the organization. Canada has twenty-eight university clubs, and each of these has selected a proportionate number of representatives to come to Vancouver.

MANY DELEGATES

The names of many of the well-known educational leaders who will attend the meeting have been made known by Miss Boller. The list, which is not yet quite complete, includes besides the Victoria delegation: Miss Marion Robinson, Miss Marjorie Gregg and Miss Jessie Muir, all of Ottawa; Miss Florence Jackson, Miss Alice P. Morris, Mrs. M. Fisher of Calgary; Mrs. S. A. Dickson, Mrs. W. J. Melrose, Dr. Misener of the University of Alberta, Miss Grace Studholme, Mrs. Emily Bayley, Mrs. Marion McCallum, all of Vancouver; Miss Lilia C. Scott, Mrs. R. J. Marshall, Miss Alice Willard, Miss Muriel Manning and Mrs. Hugh Schultz of Toronto; Mrs. Douglas Thom, Miss Elizabeth Rogers, Miss N. McLeod, Miss Clermont, Mrs. W. H. McCallum, Mrs. G. C. McCallum, Mrs. B. Dins, Miss Dorothy Henseler, Miss MacKenzie and Mrs. W. S. Simpson of Montreal; Miss Mary Stewart and Miss Clara Grogg of Winnipeg; Miss E. Grace Conover of Weston, Ont.; Miss Margaret Cameron, Miss Dorothy Peagay, Miss Margaret Williams, Bellingham, Wash., and Mrs. A. G. McGhie, Hamilton.

Forge of Moons

Jazz, Sack, Miss Marion Armstrong and Miss O. M. Fisher of Calgary; Mrs. S. A. Dickson, Mrs. W. J. Melrose, Dr. Misener of the University of Alberta, Miss Grace Studholme, Mrs. Emily Bayley, Mrs. Marion McCallum, all of Vancouver; Miss Lilia C. Scott, Mrs. R. J. Marshall, Miss Alice Willard, Miss Muriel Manning and Mrs. Hugh Schultz of Toronto; Mrs. Douglas Thom, Miss Elizabeth Rogers, Miss N. McLeod, Miss Clermont, Mrs. W. H. McCallum, Mrs. G. C. McCallum, Mrs. B. Dins, Miss Dorothy Henseler, Miss MacKenzie and Mrs. W. S. Simpson of Montreal; Miss Mary Stewart and Miss Clara Grogg of Winnipeg; Miss E. Grace Conover of Weston, Ont.; Miss Margaret Cameron, Miss Dorothy Peagay, Miss Margaret Williams, Bellingham, Wash., and Mrs. A. G. McGhie, Hamilton.

FENCING CHAMP

More and better exercise is the health advice of Mrs. Charles H. Hopkins, champion fencer, who will go to the Olympic Games this summer.

"Exercise keeps a person clean mentally and physically," she asserted.

"Especially if she does creative mental work, physical exercise is a much-needed counter-balance."

For all exercise, it seems to me, fencing is the perfect one. It has beauty, health and grace as its possibilities. And it is the one place in this hectic life where old-world courtesy plays an essential part.

"Good form is one of the first rules of fencing, I often have thought that if children were taught fencing, their manners would take care of themselves, for fencing would teach them the importance of 'good form.'

"Fencing has other tremendous advantages. It appeals to the mentally quick as well as the physically agile. Fencing combines the exertion of a game like tennis with the joy of matching wits as in a game of chess."

"Other exercises have their good points, but I believe fencing has been overlooked as an ideal exercise for the growing child. For skill in fencing learned in youth brings joy throughout life."

Tired Shirt

Many of the smartest tiered skirts scoop up in front, but show a closely molded belt and hip line, the belt much lower in the back than in the front.

Police—How do you account for having all these things in your pocket?

Soldiers—Well, you see, officer, we ain't got no sideboard at home.

Nothing Is Haphazard In a Child's Progress

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nature works as methodically in her development of a human being after birth, as before. It is a mistake to think that a child's activities are haphazard affairs without rhyme or reason.

Following are a few interesting statistics of a child's development from one to three years of age. Children are different and there may be some variation, but the table will help to show parents the regularity with which progress is made.

Compare your child to this table and see how nearly it fits the case:

At fourteen to sixteen months he can put a spoon into his mouth, although he cannot carry food with it. At this time he can carry some objects, but he is able to walk. Some children do not walk until they are eighteen months old. Others even later.

At eighteen months he can eat with a small spoon without spilling, or drink from a cup held in both hands. At this time he can push things on wheels or pull toys on a string.

At eighteen months he has enough control of his hands to cut paper with scissors. He will not be able to cut forms, of course, but the act of cutting is controlled. I should not, however, advise such a plaything for so young a child. At this time he can play with dishes, or mark with a pencil.

He can find a picture in a picture-book if he hears its name, or point out simple objects in the picture, such as boy, girl, kitty, cow, etc.

At this time he understands most of the common everyday words said to him, and will use many of them himself, although the time for talking varies greatly in different children.

At two years he can build with blocks. He begins to take delight in simple little stories and he shows an unbounded interest in pictures. At this age of two years he begins to make words into little sentences.

At three years of age or even before he can play by the hour alone if objects are furnished to arouse his interest. The simplest thing will sometimes amuse him indefinitely.

At three he can begin to learn to dress and undress. He will be awkward at first and need a great deal of help, but by four he can manage very well.

At three he will have little conception of time, such as yesterday, or tomorrow; meals he will confuse with each other, and he cannot count.

Combination Sale

One Electric Washer
One Laundry Piece
One Electrical Gift

3 Articles for the Price of One—

Never in all our history has a sale been so popular as our combination sale this summer. We have had to make and ship TWO CARLOADS of electric washers every day to keep up with our orders.

Many who have talked for a long time about getting an electric washer are taking advantage of this sale to get one now. The washers are our latest, most popular models. The electrical appliances and bridge lamp are things that everyone desires. The laundry piece is something that you would have to buy extra some day, anyhow.

ONLY $1.00 DEPOSIT—
$2.25 A WEEK AND LESS

There is no extra charge for interest. The two extra pieces are included FREE. $1.00 down, $2.25 a week; this simple, easy plan takes care of everything. Only by manufacturing and selling in enormous quantities direct to the consumer can we afford to give you this splendid opportunity.

TRADE IN YOUR OLD WASHER

If you have a washing machine or wringer of ancient make, TRADE IT IN. We will take back any kind on a new machine. Service is assured from our own factory branch, located right here in the city, where full stocks of parts are always carried.

MAKE YOUR CHOICE AND ORDER TO-DAY

Chesterfield Lamp

Beautiful stands of wood, neatly turned, with suitable sized bases weighted with a metal casting. Offered in the popular walnut finish and each is wired complete with a double adjustable chain pull socket and graceful adjustable bridge arm.

Chesterfield Lamp

The shades are exceptionally attractive in design, being lined in silk, heavily interlined and covered in geometric shadow numbers and panel effects. All are trimmed with wide galloons bandings and two 6-in. fringes, one metal and one silk draped over a silk floounce.

HOTPOINT PERCOLATOR

Usual Hotpoint quality, nickel-plated over copper body, and equipped with automatic cut-off switch, also cord.

Triplex Heater and Stove FREE

Two burners, three heats, an efficient stove and just as good as a heater. Runs on wall socket from ordinary wiring.

Dolores Del Rio Stars In "Ramona" Now At Dominion

Famous Classic of Early Indian Life in California
Opened at the Dominion Theatre This Afternoon;
Dolores Plays Part of Enchanting Spanish Maid

Helen Hunt Jackson's story, "Ramona," which plays at the Dominion Theatre this week, is regarded as one of the greatest American classics.

When Mrs. Jackson decided to write "Ramona" she had a deliberate purpose and as high an aim as that associated in the writing of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." She did not realize that her story would prove one of America's most interesting classics.

It was the writer's motive to bring the treatment toward the Indians by the Americans, before Congress in the hope that Congress could enact just laws.

RECALLS NATIVES' FLIGHT

Before "Ramona" recalled the Indians' flight in fiction form, she had written "A Century of Dishonor" in which she exposed the United States Government's dealing with the Indian tribes that had widespread influence. Being a plain, cold statement of facts, with copies of evidence to bear it out, "A Century of Dishonor" was really an indictment of the Government for its failure to keep its promises with the Red Man from early times down to the date of the publication of the book, 1880.

WITH A PURPOSE

It was later that Mr. Jackson became convinced that public sympathy on behalf of the Mission Indians of California, could be awakened if revealed in story form; hence her novel with a purpose, "Ramona."

"Ramona" would never have reached a ninety-fourth printing had it not possessed unusual literary qualities, for public interest in the Indian question alone could never have kept the book alive. As it is, "Ramona" is regarded as one of the American classics.

Today the picture is its 100th sale and now comes the film that will give it perpetual life on the silver sheet. Inspiration Pictures and Edwin Carew produced the story with Dolores Del Rio in the star and title role. It is regarded as one of the important pictures for the new year and a vehicle entirely suited to the star's historic talents.

Undersized Arab Wins Marathon

El Quafi, Running For France, Springs Great Surprise By Victory

Twenty-nine-year-old former dispatch-bearer in the French Moroccan Army gained triumph and carried young Chilean, Miguel Plaza, through to second place by his remarkable spurt; Cliff Bricker, Canada's main hope, finishes tenth and Johnny Miles, sixteenth; Joie Ray, of U.S., fifth.

Olympic Stadium, Amsterdam, Aug. 6.—With the classic marathon victory apparently within his grasp, Joie Ray, tired and muscle-sore little American favorite, faltered almost in sight of the finish yesterday afternoon while the undersized Algerian Arab, El Quafi, running under the colors of France, galloped off with the crowning prize of the 1928 Olympic track and field championship. Cliff Bricker, of Galt, Ont., Canada's main hope, finished tenth, while Johnny Miles, of Sydney, C.B., was sixteenth.

El Quafi, twenty-nine-year-old former dispatch bearer in the French Moroccan army, now in the more peaceful pursuit of an automobile factory worker in Paris, came from nowhere in the last few miles of the long grind to spring a sensational upset. The dark-skinned little runner dashed into the stadium to the cheers of 40,000 persons and half-circled the track to beat his nearest rival, Miguel Plaza, the six-year-old Chilean, another dark horse, by 150 metres.

Ray, jogging slowly around the oval and near the point of exhaustion, finished fifth, behind M. B. Maitelinen, of Finland, and Kanematsu Yamao, of Japan, who had alternated with Ray to set the pace for fully two-thirds of the grind over Dutch roads and cobblestones.

FIRST FRENCH WIN SINCE 1900

El Quafi, in one of the biggest marathons surprises in history, not only ran the pick of the world's long-distance runners into the ground, but ran the second fastest Olympic marathon to send the French flag up the victory pole for the first time since Teato won at Paris in 1900.

Over a flat but tough course El Quafi covered the 26 miles 385 yards in 2 hours 32 minutes 47 seconds, less than 32 seconds short of the record Olympic time set in 1920 at Antwerp by Hannes Kolehmainen of Finland.

Saving for the finish after running most of the way well back in the big field of some seventy-five runners representing twenty-four nations, El Quafi dashed to the finish and his rivals with a sprint that carried the Chilean Plaza along with him. The race given no consideration by the experts in advance, calculations that figured the winner would come from the United States, Finland or Canada, swept past tired and faltering leaders with a magnificent finish. Both appeared to have unexpected energy in reserve at the close. Only the fact that Quafi first decided to spurt, catching Plaza napping a bit, enabled the Arab to gain and hold the lead over the Chilean.

GOING WILD RECEPTION

Plaza came through the portal beside the marathon tower before El Quafi had finished, and the thunderous applause for the winner turned to the second place man, whose friends leaped from the stands to wrap him in a Chilean flag and hoist him to their shoulders. American hopes, which burned high throughout most of the race, as Ray always was within the first five and appeared likely to fulfill his promise, faded along with Joie in the last three miles. Except at the start, when the veterans Whitley Michelson of Stamford, Conn., and Clarence de Mar, of Melrose, Mass., stayed briefly with the race, the group of six that set out so confidently to the extent of their nurses and the opinion of Alexandre Gibb, their manager.

There was some feeling after the race that Harry Warren of Vancouver, a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, should have been given Hester's place on the relay.

The Canadian men are going to London to-day in an effort to gain further honors in the British Empire games.

The girls will celebrate their victories with a shopping expedition in Paris, where their activities will be limited to the extent of their nurses and the opinion of Alexandre Gibb, their manager.

The girls, in any event, are anxious to return to Canada as soon as possible. This was made evident in the buzz of conversation at their hotel last evening.

Harrison Wins Sixth Tennis Title In As Many Weeks' Effort

Californian Annexes B.C. Men's, Championship, While Miss Mary Campbell, of Victoria, Restores City's Lost Prestige in Women's Singles by Defeating Miss Hunt, of California, in Finals; Fine Tennis Gallery Treated to Some Interesting Tennis in Finals

Miss Mary Campbell of Victoria and Bradshaw Harrison of San Francisco will share the B.C. tennis throne for the coming year, as a result of brilliant victories in the finals of the provincial tourney which went out in a blaze of glory on Saturday afternoon.

Several hundred spectators saw the Victoria girl restore the prestige of local tennis in a smashingly decisive 6-4, 6-2 win over Miss Marion Hunt of San Francisco, while Harrison upheld the honor of the touring Southerners by defeating Leon de Turenne in the singles final 6-3, 9-7, 6-1, and later coming back to win the mixed doubles with Miss Tatlow of Vancouver.

It was Harrison's sixth singles title in as many weeks, and stamps her without a doubt as the leading player on the Pacific Coast.

Turenne and "Windy" Langille gained a surprisingly easy victory over Howard Tatlow and Harrison, now out. Miss Gross and Stanley Almquist, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5, in the mixed doubles final. The winners were the more evenly balanced team while Almquist's carelessness, and Mrs. Gross' lack of mobility counted heavily against them.

H. G. Garrett won his second straight veterans' title by defeating Henry Gray of Portland in straight sets 6-3, 6-3. The winner's all-round game was too much for the crafty chaps of the Portlander.

The following is the point score of the Harrison-Turenne, and Campbell-Hunt matches:

Harrison vs. Turenne
First Set—	4 1 4 4 6 3 4 0 5 6-31

LADIES' DOUBLES—FINAL

Mrs. Gross and Miss Cruickshank defeated Miss Hope Leeming and Miss Campbell, 6-2, 6-4.
LADIES' DOUBLES—FINAL

Mrs. Gross and Miss Cruickshank won as no surprise after her play during the week, although in fairness to Miss Hunt, it must be said that she was not feeling at her best. Miss Campbell's drives lacked depth, but she was able to swing them from side to side with surprising regularity, and Miss Hunt soon began to falter before this match.
While Miss Campbell had a clear edge after the first set, there were a lot of deuce games and they were nearly all won by the Victoria girl's dogged determination. This was Miss Campbell's first appearance in a B.C. final and her performance yesterday stamps her as a worthy champion to Miss Leeming and Miss Williams.

MACHINE-LIKE ACCURACY

Miss Campbell's win came as no surprise after her play during the week, although in fairness to Miss Hunt, it must be said that she was not feeling at her best. Miss Campbell's drives lacked depth, but she was able to swing them from side to side with surprising regularity, and Miss Hunt soon began to falter before this match. While Miss Campbell had a clear edge after the first set, there were a lot of deuce games and they were nearly all won by the Victoria girl's dogged determination. This was Miss Campbell's first appearance in a B.C. final and her performance yesterday stamps her as a worthy champion to Miss Leeming and Miss Williams.

The men's doubles was rather a disappointment after Friday's final. The partial teams of Lloyd Nordstrom's game three too great a load on "Windy" Langille's shoulders, and although the youngsters made a fight of it, the third set, the final outcome was never in doubt. Nordstrom was missing all kinds of shots, while Turenne and "Windy" Langille were remarkably steady and forceful throughout. They kept a steady pressure applied against Nordstrom, and were giving Howard Langille a chance to finish the rallies he had beaten Harrison and Lockwood the day before.

The first two sets were soon over at 6-2, 6-2, and the eventual winners had run up a lead of 5-2 in the third set before the youngsters found themselves. They took two games to fine play and came off the set after a deuce hold, called many times in the tenth game. If their rally had been staged a little sooner, they might easily have extended the struggle, but as it was the winners had enough left to stave them off without the loss of a set. "Windy" Langille's accurate chops and Turenne's heady all-round play were features of the match.

UNINTERESTING MATCH

Mrs. Gross and Miss Cruickshank won an uninteresting ladies' doubles final from Miss Campbell and Miss Leeming, largely through the calm manner in which Mrs. Gross and the visitors played the game up and one back" combination and by centring their attack on Miss Leeming. They were able to reel off game after game. There was very little shown in the way of thrills or enterprise but Mrs. Scoville and Poynett.

The Wife-Ship Woman

By Hugh Pendexter

AUTHOR OF
"KINGS OF THE MOUNTAIN,"
BY GEMINI,
A VIRGINIA SCOUTER

The next day opened with rain. The storm blew down the river and was very disagreeable to face, as the rain blurred the vision. Yet I was determined to make the Bluffs that day, and once for all have done with Mississippi.

When we landed at Chickasaw Bluffs she gave voice to a fervent "Thank God!"

"From now on it will be overland travel, mademoiselle," I told her. "You may find it hard at first, although the trail is good. We will go slowly until you are used to it."

"Go fast! Go fast!" she urged. "The farther we draw from the river the miserable the better I shall feel."

We gained the top of the bluffs, and I led the way into the Chickasaw trail. I explained to the girl how we must follow it for more than 160 miles to reach Long Town. Labrador, as he bid farewell to the river forever, went to the brink of a bluff and stared gloomily at the leaden waters below.

I saw him, lift his hand, as if in a gesture of farewell, and lean forward and peer intently down-stream. I called and after a bit of hesitation he turned and swaggered back to us. He smiled at the girl, and gave me a look that made me examine the flint in my gun.

"Forty-foot pirogue coming upstream. Fired with Indian, I think there is some white man in it," he told me in Choctaw, with a flash of his white teeth.

The girl was not to be deceived by his cheery manner, and fiercely demanded:

"What is it? Where are they?"

"They are coming down the river, heading this way. We don't know who is in it. There is nothing to fear. If mademoiselle will put her best foot forward for a few miles we will laugh at them. Remember, there is no danger. We shall be far up the trail before they even land."

For the first time only in part Mademoiselle at her best could make slow progress. Not used to forest travel and long confined to the pirogue she made me groan inwardly. She believed she was doing famously, and as the Choctaws would hunt us silently, not daring to proclaim their presence by their usual series of discourses, I expected every minute to behold them bounding from the bushes.

Labrador, too, was very uneasy and wished to drop back and guard the trail. I would not listen to his proposition, and muttering under my breath he suddenly caught the girl up and ran with her. She protested and struggled, but he paid no heed. She quickly quieted when she saw it was useless to resist. I raced along at his side and when he tired he passed her to me. And in this fashion we ran, taking turns in carrying her, and making excellent time. I believed we were beyond all danger.

Our awakening came when the girl happened to glance back. She gave a shrill scream. Before she had finished Labrador had behind a tree and I was under cover on the other side of the trail. I could see nothing to cause alarm.

"What was it, mademoiselle?" I asked, my voice betraying my impatience. I fear.

"A painted face close to the ground," she huskily replied, and pointing a trembling finger at a sycamore half-way down the trail.

"You imagined it," I told her as she walked beside me up the trail with Labrador bringing up the rear.

"I tell you I saw it! A horrible face, taws were trying to get inside his guard with their knives. The man I had knocked down with my pistol now lay at my feet with his knife. I sent the heel of my moccasin into his face, but lost my grip on Damoan, who leaped to help his men finish Labrador, thinking to do this and have the help of the two in a last struggle with me.

I jumped after him as one of the savages struck Labrador's iron-shod moccasin between the eyes, his head caving in like an eggshell.

But the other lunged in with his knife and left it sticking between poor Joe's ribs. I had raised my axe to do for Damoan, but even as it started to descend I shifted my aim and caught Labrador's slender neck in the grip of my hand. So that he was beside his victim. And then Damoan was on my back.

The sight of poor Labrador, watching our struggle with dying gasps, gave me the strength of several men. I must finish with Damoan and relieve my friend's last wish. I let go and went behind the fellow's neck. He was trying to get at his knife. I gave him a chance for the sake of getting my right wrist under his chin. He grunted with joy as he pulled his blade free, and I gave a pull and push and snapped his neck in a most tight fashion, before he could even find his point through my shirt. Labrador stared to one side and I wheeled in time to behold the savage I had twice knocked down raise one on knee to hurl an axe. I dropped and came up with a dead man's axe and chopped him to the chin. There was a gleam of surprise in Labrador's eye as I gained his side.

"Red rings on a red pole," he muttered, referring to the Natchez style of counting coupes. "Get the girl away. Don't stop to bury me. There may be more of them."

"I can't be buried if there were a million," I promised.

I thought he was gone, but he raised and whispered:

"My wife was a better-woman than I was a man. She will understand. She was very wise for a red woman. An Indian woman, I mean."

I scalped Damoan, as I had promised him I should do, and stuck his head to a tree with his own knife. Then I went back and comforted the girl and told her she must remain in the tree for a bit longer, this last that she might not discover the bloody plight I was in. Returning to the scene of the fight I found a grave with my knife and buried it.

"Mademoiselle wept bitterly when I rescued her from the tree and told her that Labrador had gone away.

I bandaged my leg and she covered her in the night and we covered a quiet place a ways to run into the land of Chickasaws. I had been attracted by the gunfire. I told them of the battle and gave Joe all the credit, except for the men in the trail. They hastened on to gather the scalps and to leave a hieroglyphic picture carved on a tree by Joe's grave which would be his resting-place undisturbed for all time, so far as the red men were concerned.

"Now you have one!"

I picked up the girl and tossed her high into the forked branches of the tree. She screamed with terror, but I held her by the hair and she was soon quiet again and directed after Labrador. I came upon him as he gave ground, his head toward the invisible enemy.

"The woman!" he growled as we came together.

"Hidden in the tree. Fall back!"

He passed on and I remained to the bushes, holding his trail.

The Chickasaws provided an escort until we were well within the Cherokee country. Mademoiselle never spoke of the past of the time when we first met on Ship Island, or of her life in France. Whatever half-formed impressions I had entertained regarding her life there were now dispelled by the surmising comment of the Cherokee. Sometimes she was a child, sometimes a woman, and whenever her mood there was a satisfaction in seeing her before the evening campfire and in knowing she was behind me in the light bark canoe. This feeling of contentment in her presence grew until an amazing sight as I finally drew toward the end of our journey.

"One night with the Cherokee escort chanting some medicine-songs in their nearby camp, I gave way to an impulse, and, bending forward to watch her thoughts, I drew her through the smoke of an attack up the trail, along as the Fox led the fighting against the Canadian. Repeating my warning to the girl, I ran the second time to help my friend.

With a scream of rage Damoan betrayed his hunting-place. The next moment he was under four savages at us, and I said to Labrador: "Now for some good work."

My musket was emptied and my pistol missed fire. I buried the pistol into a savage's face and heard Joe's pistol explode a click or two after me; and in the first gnatation with Damoan I nearly tripped over the beggar Joe had shot. He was now clubbing his musket and two Choctaws were trying to get inside his guard with their knives. The man I had knocked down with my pistol now lay at my feet with his knife. I sent the heel of my moccasin into his face, but lost my grip on Damoan, who leaped to help his men finish Labrador, thinking to do this and have the help of the two in a last struggle with me.

ANCIENT SHIPS

Probably through chance ancient man discovered the use of a sail. Then he added a steering gear to his crude craft. Gradually the vessels took a distinct shape which their builders had copied from fishes or the underbodies of ducks or swans. The artist has sketched here a model of a Nile river boat used by the Egyptians about 5000 B.C.

When there was no wind, paddlers took the place of the dismantled sail. These were slaves, directed by an overseer with a whip.

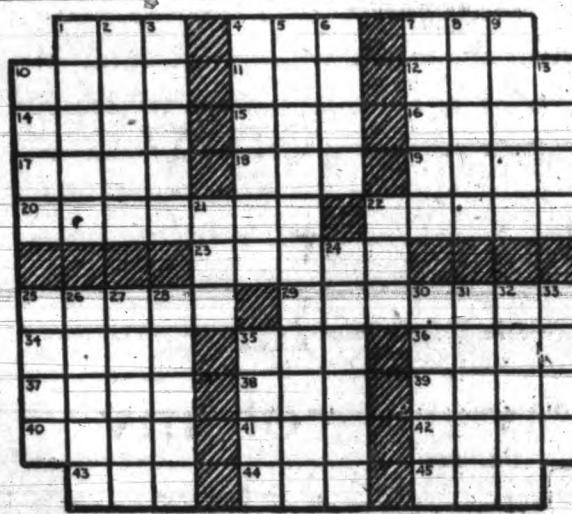

Someone discovered that rowing gave more power than paddling, so that was the next great change in moving the vessels.

Gradually the Egyptians ventured out into strange waters. About 1600 B.C. Queen Hatshepsut, believing that the god Amen desired her to voyage, started for Punt, or what is now believed to be Somaliland. The expedition sailed down the Nile and into an old canal leading into the Red Sea, about where the Suez Canal lies today.

To-morrow's Horoscope

TUESDAY, AUGUST 7, 1928

Benefic stars rule to-day, according to astrology which reads in the horoscope much fair promise for the planet Earth.

Women are especially well guided and they will probably be prominent and forceful in many public movements at this time.

The stars who promise surprises in the national election forecast tremendous changes in the public mind.

Old things pass away rapidly in this year 1928 which will mark final changes in careers in the arts, business and politics.

It is wise to make overtures of every sort while this configuration prevails for it is possible to make a good impression revealing the best side of one's character.

This should be a favorable sway under which to visit hospitals either as a patient or a physician.

For all who choose life partners good fortune is promised since the rule of the stars is supposed to assure keen judgment and foresight.

Persons interested in the radio have the assurance from the stars that they will make new discoveries in the world of hidden things.

Aviators also are subject to a helpful rule of the stars, for they are members of a new air triplicate that is to change the world.

Those whose birthdate is in the angular of a year of happy days in which love illuminates the way. These subjects of Leo are now to be leaders in many world affairs.

Children born on this day probably will be good business children. The subjects of Leo are usually strongly determined and able to overcome business difficulties. They are natural leaders.

All motorists have climbed hills that their cars might have made in "high," but which, for the sake of speed and the car, it was better to make in "second." Your vision may be like that. You see perfectly, but only by constant straining. Glasses perform the same "easing" function as a car's second gear.

Words and Poetry The Art of Writing

Words and Poetry. By George H. Ryland.

New York: H. Holt and Co.

A young man, a poet, a son at King's College, Cambridge, vouches for by Lytton Strachey in a preliminary word, embarks auspiciously upon the sea of literary criticism in this volume. His title is not melodic. Neither (thank God!) are his intentions. But he is sound, and he is not scholarless, and our singular heart always has leaped up at the note too common spectacle of a word-lover willing (and thereby empowered) to be an analyst.

The first part of his book discusses words as tools of poetry in general.

Tools, that man invented for tools, grow animate on his lips, and tend to become the poets' masters. Through long, snowballing ages the words reverberate, gathering to itself symbols and associations of astonishment, multifarious. With many illustrations, the author attempts to define (or divine) the valence of a number of these poetic elements, tracing the usages of words—through the wide field of English literature. It is not pedantic, though a man were to dogmatize upon the Icelandic roots of Miltonic verbiage. It is a sensitized recognition of an aura that of necessity surrounds words in poetry, and which in a measure accounts for the transcendent "fitness" of language in poems of genius as distinguished from scientific exactitude.

Teachers and students of composition, embryonic, mute, or stumbling poetizers, and lovers of poetry will profit greatly by this that they read it, and think on beyond it. It is so pleasantly set forth that it might almost be recommended to the hordes of the unaffected; but we know that certain minds are born and continue inviolable.

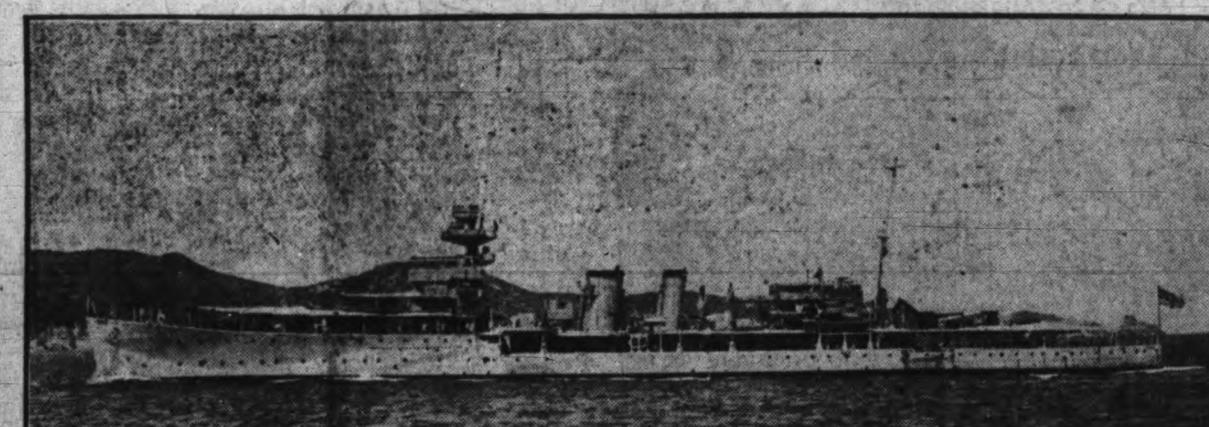

The second part of Mr. Ryland's gentle dissertation is made to focus upon the poetic words of one, Shakespeare, whose name is, indeed, not unfamiliar on our lips. For thus resuscitating our dramatic bard Mr. Ryland aptly apologizes, "but pleads in extenuation that few or none have actually studied that phase of his art, his apprenticeship to and progress in word-masonry. He begins, pleasantly, near the beginning, and brings clear light to bear upon the master's early imitations in the court of Logos. A style at first imitative and lifeless a wee bit (for all that Shakespeare prefaces his later incomparability), grew leap by leap until it could effect the ends of the supreme dramatist, and still done, growth became his paramount interest, dwarfing the tragic values of his midlife period in the poetic values with which they rounded creation off.

This "thesis" is, perhaps, not unprecedented, but we venture to say that few writers upon Shakespeare in any phase have succeeded so well in anatomizing the living structures of his art without rubbing off the glamor in the process. One reason is, we are sure, that he does not run rutting off into raptures, another is the taste with which he selects and quotes (perhaps too much), and still another is that he amably and avowedly brawns in a rich wilderness that no man's system may hope to domesticate.

Salmon Pack Is Far Ahead Of Last Season

Heavy Takings of Pinks and Chums Makes Up for Loss in Sockeye; Total Pack in British Columbia to July 28 Totaled 324,076 Cases as Against 280,319 for Last Season; Run of Sockeyes and Springs Has Been Disappointing

Although the sockeye and spring salmon packs in British Columbia waters are running below last year's levels to date the situation is being saved by heavy taking of pinks and chums, while the fact that the total pack to July 28 was 324,076 cases as against 280,319 cases at July 30, last year.

While the heavy runs are in the low-priced fish, the might lead to a concern that the canners will for that reason realize less than in other years. It should be remembered that the consolidation of companies under B.C. Packers and the agreement between that large organization and the other operators of canneries to offer the water with consequent economies should materially cut the cost of this season's business.

There is in fisheries circles a general hopefulness that the figures of 1928 on company balance will not be red in, as is the case with so many companies last year.

IS DISAPPOINTING

The sockeye and springs pack has been disappointing, being below the average of the past few years. The falling off in the total has been principally due to the small number of sockeyes taken in the Fraser River, which was 1,200 cases in that area to July 28, 21,309 cases as compared with 53,147 cases in July, 1927.

Normal runs of sockeye have occurred in other waters and on the Fraser—the run is about double the level for the corresponding period last year. Thus companies depending on the Skeena for their sockeye pack have been short on the red fish. However, they are packing a good quantity of pinks and chums, the quantity to date about three times that recorded in the same period a year ago.

The Neas River district, is piling up a very good pack of pinks, the total being 35,562 cases as compared with 5,211 at the same period last year.

Altogether the pack to date for Edmunds is as follows:

Comparison of packs for the past four years, with approximately corresponding dates, is as follows (Inspection of Fisheries figures):

July 28, 1928 Cases

Of Shipwreck

London, Aug. 6.—Lieut.-Commander T. R. Beatty has been dismissed from his ship and severely reprimanded, following conviction by a naval court-martial of giving a wrong course for the British cruiser Dauntless, which grounded in Halifax Harbor July 2.

Lieut.-Commander Beatty admitted that he had been instructed that the Thrum Cap Shoal was incorrectly charted. The commander of the Dauntless, Capt. MacPherson, expressed a high opinion of Lieut.-Commander Beatty as a navigating officer.

The Dauntless has been refloated and taken to Dartmouth for repairs.
